YOUR ALL-PURPOSE GUIDE TO EPIC MOVIES

GRAPHIC BY PATRICK GARVIN | GLOBE STAFF

AS YOU MAY have heard, a movie just opened this weekend—the last installment of an epic where a reluctant hero is guided by a wise sage through a dangerous magical world where he eventually confronts a villain of unknowable power. And, of course, there's a comic sidekick and a traitorous schemer along the way.

That would be “Harry Potter,” of course. Or is it “Star Wars”? “The Lord of the Rings”?

If you ever get the feeling you're seeing the same movie over and over—well, history agrees with you. In 1949, the writer Joseph Campbell boiled centuries of human fairy tales and quest myths down to an essential list of archetypal characters. Today, his book “The Hero With a Thousand Faces” reads eerily like a plot guide to the great cult-favorite movie franchises of our time, from the elaborate world of “Harry Potter” to . . . um, Pixar cartoons. Don't believe it? Just check the chart.

| | The Hero “More or less human in character, through whom the world destiny is realized” | The Ancient Mystagogue “The Wise Old Man... whose words assist the hero through the trials and terrors of the weird adventure” | The Enemy “Great and conspicuous in the seat of power” | The Threshold Guardian “The first problem of the hero to surpass” | The Shape-Shifter An ambiguous character whose loyalties and values are not always clear | The Trickster Comic relief, to offset the dramatic tension |
|------------------------------|---|--|---|--|--|--|
| “Harry Potter” series |  Harry Potter |  Dumbledore |  Voldemort |  Quirrell |  Snape |  Ron Weasley |
| “Star Wars” series |  Luke Skywalker |  Obi-Wan |  Darth Vader |  Stormtroopers |  Han Solo |  C-3PO and R2-D2 |
| “The Matrix” series |  Neo |  Morpheus |  The Matrix |  Agent Smith |  Cypher | There's not much to laugh at in “The Matrix.” |
| “Lord of The Rings” |  Frodo |  Gandalf |  Sauron |  Aragorn |  Boromir |  Merry and Pippin |
| “Finding Nemo” |  Marlin |  Crush |  Darla |  Bruce |  Gill |  Dory |
